Technology and a Master of Marine Affairs, utilizing the GI Bill. He also holds a USCG license to operate motor vessels of up to 100 tons.

In 1981 he relocated to Washington, DC where he worked for three years as Legislative Assistant to U.S. Senator William Cohen, of Maine, with responsibilities in fisheries and veterans affairs, and for two years as a professional staff member for the (then) Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Beginning in 1986, he spent 14 years employed as the Executive Director of the Maine Sardine Council, representing the sardine packing and herring fishing industry in the regional and interstate fishery management process.

After the dissolution of the Sardine Council, in 2000, he worked from his home in Maine as a commercial fishing industry consultant, representing a salmon farming company, a herring trawler/seiner and bait company and Lund's Fisheries, before the New England Fishery Management Council, Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council and Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission. He also served as a Maine State Representative, from 2002 through 2006, and sat as the Ranking Minority member of the Legislature's Marine Resources Committee.

In 2011, Jeff relocated to Cape May, NJ to work full time for Lund's Fisheries where he has responsibilities in the area of Government Relations for the Cape May facility and the East Coast fisheries utilized by the company.

Lund's Fisheries, Inc. is a family owned, vertically-integrated fishing company, operating a seafood processing plant in Cape May, NJ with freezing capabilities and 12 company-owned vessels. Lund's also works regularly with another dozen independent fishermen and fishing vessels in some 20 east coast fisheries, from Cape Hatteras into the Gulf of Maine. Lund's Fisheries also operates a California squid processing facility, Suncoast Calamari, located in Oxnard, CA, and Shoreline Freezers, a cold-storage facility located in Bridgeton, NJ.

Jeff is currently the chair of the Industry Advisory Board (IAB) for the Science Center for Marine Fisheries (SCMFIS) www.scemfis.org, a National Science Foundation Industry/University Cooperative Research Center that uses academic, recreational, and commercial fisheries resources to address urgent scientific problems limiting sustainable fisheries. The IAB advises the Center's management on all aspects, from research project selection, and evaluation, to strategic planning. NMFS' NEFSC sits as an IAB member.

Jeff's adult sons reside in Maine.

Trey.Rhodes@house.ga.gov

Rep. Trey Rhodes is a lifelong citizen of Greene County, Georgia. After graduating from Greene County High School he played baseball for Brevard Community College in Melbourne, Florida before transferring to the University of Georgia. He remains friends today with his UGA roommate, Kirby Smart. As a matter of fact, Coach Smart had a hand in introducing Trey to Summer Moore, who later became his wife.

Trey and Summer Rhodes have three children: Olivia, Hallie Beth, and Lane. Rep. Rhodes is a financial advisor with Piedmont Financial Partners, and Mrs. Rhodes is a media specialist at Putnam County High School. The Rhodes children are very active in sports and Rep. Rhodes often coaches their baseball, basketball, and football teams.

Rep. Rhodes' grandfather, father, and mother all served on his hometown city council. In addition his grandfather and father were both elected mayor. This led Trey to run for city council, a position he held for over nine years before running for the Georgia House of Representatives. He was elected to represent District 120 in 2015 and currently serves as chairman of the House Game, Fish, & Parks Committee.

gjennings@asafishing.org

Gary Jennings is the Director of Keep Florida Fishing, which is an initiative of the American Sportfishing Association (ASA). ASA is the nation's recreational fishing trade association and represents sportfishing manufacturers, retailers, wholesalers, and angler advocacy groups, as well as the interests of America's 55 million recreational anglers. The mission of the Keep Florida Fishing program is to ensure that Floridians and those visiting the state, have clean waters, abundant fisheries and access to both.

Gary graduated from The Florida State University with B.S. degrees in Human Resource Management and Hospitality Administration. He held positions with The Walt Disney Company and Hilton Hotels Corporation before working in the recreational fishing industry, first as a Regional Director for CCA Florida and then as the publisher of Fly Fishing in Saltwaters magazine. He also worked as General Manager of Hell's Bay Boatworks before joining the American Sportfishing Association in 2015. Throughout his industry work experience, Gary has focused on engaging the recreational fishing community to actively participate in fisheries management. He believes a cooperative management approach with industry involvement promotes positive outcomes for sustainable fishing and access.

Jennings actively participates in the Florida Keys National Marine Sanctuary, Sanctuary Advisory Council as the alternate recreational fishing representative, Florida Fish and Wildlife Commission Aquatic Plant Management Technical Advisory Group and the University of Florida / Florida Department of Environmental Protection Coral Reef Fishing Stakeholder Group.

Gary is an avid angler and has had the opportunity to fish all over the world. He lives with his wife, Lisa on Lake Hancock outside of Orlando, Florida. When he isn't working, fishing or turkey hunting, he enjoys flying his 1945 Piper J3 Cub floatplane.
